There are four household-level variables available associated with different dimensions of resources or well-being. The classifications, however, are not official deprivation measures and should not be confused with the Index of Multiple Deprivation (although this classification was used as a starting point for producing the variables). A fuller account of these classifications and their development is available in Wathan, J., C. Holdsworth and R. Leeser (2004) 'Alternative Household Classifications for the 2001 Census' Environment and Planning A vol 36 pp1101-1123. A household is defined as not having the education characteristic if no person aged 16 to pensionable age has at least level 2 education and no person aged 16 to 18 is a full-time student. This variable is not available in Scotland.
