An ESRC Research Centre at University College, London (PI: Professor Mel Bartley) and Imperial College, London (PI: Professor David Blane)

Consultant: Ian Plewis (CCSR)

Funded from 1 January 2008 for five years in the first instance

The International Centre for Lifecourse Studies in Health and Society (ICLS) investigates processes throughout the life course that relate the development of personal and professional skills to health and wellbeing and to patterns of employment and social participation.

This research is possible due to the unique longitudinal birth cohort studies that have been carried out in the UK and the availability of comparative data international data.

By offering training opportunities (PhD studentships) the work of ICLS provides social scientists with quantitative skills required to make best use of longitudinal data.
